'UNJUST AND ILLEGAL'

"Whether or not war cargo is there on that day, we are trying to send a message to APL that we oppose their profiting off this unjust and illegal war," said Sasha Wright, an organizer with Direct Action to Stop the War. "We will hold them accountable."

Patrick Reinsborough, a spokesman for the group, said it hoped that members of Local 10 of the International Longshore and Warehouse Union would respect the picket line, as union members usually do, and thus shut down APL's Oakland operations by refusing to work.

Asked whether cutting off supplies to American soldiers would jeopardize their lives, Wright said, "We feel like the war is what's putting their lives in danger. This is an effort to save lives by stopping the war as quickly as possible."

ILWU spokesman Steve Stallone told MSNBC.com "the union is much like the rest of American society, it's split on the war."
